A photograph of a dilapidated industrial building interior. The space is characterized by large, multi-paned windows on the left and right sides, some of which are broken or missing. The walls are peeling and stained, with a large, dark, irregular shape painted on the back wall. In the center, a doorway leads to a darker area. To the left of the doorway, there is a large, colorful mural of a tiger. Above the doorway, a sign with the word "EXIT" is visible. The floor is dark and appears to be made of concrete or dirt. The overall atmosphere is gritty and urban.

A photograph of a deer skull lying on dark, moist soil. The skull is positioned centrally, with its antlers pointing upwards and slightly outwards. The ground is covered with dry leaves, twigs, and small stones. Overlaid on the image is the text "CHECK THE BLOG." in a large, red, hand-drawn font. The text is arranged in three lines: "CHECK" on the top line, "THE" in the middle, and "BLOG." on the bottom. The skull's eye sockets are dark and hollow, and its teeth are visible at the bottom. The overall tone of the image is somber and mysterious.
